When the fire engines return from a fire there appears to be no reason for them continually blowing their whistles. In going to a fire it is different, as the track has to be cleared. This morning several horses were frightened by the whistles when the engines were returning. To prevent any accidents we hope the different companies will in future return from a fire as quietly as pos-

THE Rev. Robert McKenzie, of San Francisco, preached an able sermon in Fort Street Church last night, from 1 John ii. 21: "I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth." The fire bells drew away a portion of the audience, but the remainder were soon composed by the return of a messenger sent out by Pastor Cruzan to ascertain the cause of the alarm.

THE British Bark Dacca arrived this morning, 114 days from Madeira with 274 Portuguese immigrants and 40 stowaways on board. There were five births and one death on the passage, the latter from dysentery. No sign of measles the entire voyage. The Dacca had a quick run to Cape Horn, but from there had stormy weather, delaying her, or else she would have made a best on record.

THE one mile foot race at Kapiolani Park on Saturday afternoon between Chas. Gannon and Jacob Sims attracted quite a number of spectators. They got away to a good start, Gannon at once taking the lead and maintaining it to the end despite all the efforts of Sims to overtake him. The latter intended to make a waiting race of it, but Gannon was equal to his persistent spurts. Sims gave up about 100 yards from the finish dead beaten. The race was for $100 a side, and considerable money changed hands.

CAPT. CRANE, of the schooner Haleakala, reports having seen a remarkable cloudburst at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, between Paauhau and Honokaa, Hawaii. A very black cloud, apparently no thicker than a cask but three or or four miles in height, stood over the land. It was struck by a bolt of lightning and bursted. Instant taneously the contents of the cloud were discharged at an angle of forty-five degrees and struck the sea near the shore. The column of moisture after striking swept on east by southeast, parallel with the shore, at the rate of four miles an hour, with a thunderous sound, until its volume was expended. The phenomenon lasted nineteen minutes.

MR. Henry Macfarlane imported by the Australia a fine lot of live stock, in horses and cattle, bought from the Auckland Stud Farm Company. There are four very fine draught horses, of the Clydesdale breed; three Hereford, two Devon and one Alderney bulls, and five Devon cows and heifers. One of the horses suffered a good deal from chafing on board ship, but otherwise all were landed in good condition. A heifer calf died on the passage from the effects of the sea. Dr. Brodie, Government veterinary surgeon, inspected the animals upon arrival and found them all sound. The importation of such superior stock is a public benefit and creditable to the enterprise of Mr. Macfarlane.
